FAIR ONES BANQUET

Wit and Humor at Fairmont Seminary Function.

Dashes of snap and frolic mingled with spells of solemn and moody hush at the banquet given to the graduates of Fairmont by the alumnae and Mrs. H. Ramsay at the New Willard yesterday.

John Barrett, guilelessly introduced by the toastmistress, Miss Marian Bigler, as "the director of twenty-one varieties of American republianism," was largely responsible for the above dashes of snap, or, perhaps, snags or oaths. He told a little story of his own experience in the line of chaperoning.

James T. Lloyd, Representative of Missouri, introduced as "the man who knows everything worth knowing," was gravity itself, and his seriousness communicated itself to the mirthful gathering. He spoke of the sunshine and shadows of life, of which the girls are just crossing the threshold, of new pleasures and responsibilities that await them. He dwelt at length on the problems of marriage, recommending extreme caution, in the choice of the life mate, putting the "yes" as far off as safely possible, and then postponing "the day" named some twelve months. But after all, he said, there is only one thing worse for a girl than to marry, and that is not to marry.

Mr. Barrett is now plotting vengeance dire on Miss Marian Bigler, who sprung an innocent box on him, which almost caused him to forget his temper. A page was scurrying through the lobby calling for "Mr. Heinze." Mr. Heinze, Miss Bigler beckoned to the boy. "Is it Mr. Heinze you are looking for? See that tall man standing over there with the ladies? That's him."

Nothing loath, the page walked up to Mr. Barrett. "Mr. Heinze, here is a telegram for you."

"Master who?" ejaculated the surprised diplomat.

An outburst of laughter made him realize the joke, and he registered a vow, then and there, to get square with the toastmistress in some way or other.

Miss Angelina Bodley, of Pennsylvania, class '07, and Miss Dorothy Matcham proposed toasts to Fairmont and the graduates of 1910. Mr. A. Ramsay spoke briefly.

A class dance was given to the graduates last night at the seminary. Commencement exercises will be held to-night, with Mr. Victor Murdock addressing the graduates.

Following is the list of those at the banquet:

Those at the Banquet.
Miss Marian Bigler, Clearfield, Pa.; Miss Amelia Ogier, Clearfield, Pa.; Miss Marian Elliott, Havertown, Pa.; Miss Dorothy Matcham, Allentown, Pa.

MISS MATHILDE TOWNSEND

BRIDE OF PETER G. GERRY

Most Beautiful Wedding in Washington in Several Years—President Taft, High Officials, and Society Leaders Attend.

President Taft, Vice President Sherman, members of the Cabinet, diplomats, and well-known society folks attended the wedding at noon yesterday of Miss Mathilde T. Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Townsend, and Peter G. Gerry, son of Commodore and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, of New York City.

The wedding took place in the palatial home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Richard Townsend, in Massachusetts avenue. Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony according to the rites of the Protestant Episcopal Church. It was the most elaborate and beautiful ceremony held in the Capital since the marriage of Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth in the White House in the Roosevelt administration.

Bower of Tall Palms. The wedding guests were gathered in the ballroom, overlooking the Italian garden. The altar was arranged in an alcove, which had been converted into a bower of tall palms and ferns, with roses and white lilies on either side.

Robert Livingston Gerry was best man, and Miss Katherine H. Elkins, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins, was the bride's only attendant.

Charles H. Strong, of Erie, Pa., the bride's uncle, gave her away. The bride wore a splendid creation of point d'Alecon lace, with a court train, and bodice cut V-shaped in front, and long sleeves of lace. A string of pearls, the present of Commodore and Mrs. Gerry, completed the costume, with the exception of a conventional bouquet of white orchids and orange blossoms.

Miss Elkins wore a princess gown of Italian and French lace combined, and a large hat of mauve tulle with orchids, and carried a bouquet of the same flowers.

Flowers Were Everywhere. The company entered through the great wrought iron front doors and passed through the white marble vestibule, all glorious with quantities of pink hydrangeas; up the marble staircase to the upper halls, where clusters of white and pink peonies nodded their pretty heads from every available nook. The drawing-room through which the bridal party walked was adorned with American Beauty roses and clusters of orchids.

White marble pedestals crowned with Anemone lilies formed an aisle to mark the way for the bridal procession through the ballroom to the altar. An arch of farfetched ferns studied with orange blossoms outlined the white and gold mirror which formed a background for the improvised altar. Just above the heads of the bridal party a huge cluster of orchids was suspended, and to the right stood a tall vase of lilies.

As the Marine Band Orchestra, under the leadership of Lieut. Santelmann, began the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, Miss Townsend entered the room on the arm of her uncle, Miss Elkins, the maid of honor, preceded her.

During the ceremony the President stood with Mrs. Townsend, Commodore and Mrs. Gerry, and other members of the family. The wedding was followed by a breakfast, attended also by Mr. Taft, the Vice President, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Attorney General, and others in official life. The President congratulated Mr. Gerry and his bride, and pledged their health with the 200 guests standing.

Among others at the wedding besides the President, Vice President, and members of his Cabinet, were the Ambassador from Germany, Baroness Rosen, wife of the Russian Ambassador; Miss Angelica Gerry, Miss Mabel Gerry, members of the bridegroom's family; Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Mills, Ogden Mills, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Golet, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Maj. G. Creighton Webb, John H. Townsend, Adrian Leitch, all of New York; Mr. Justice and Mrs. Holmes, Senator and Mrs. Dewey, Senator and Mrs. Newlands, Senator and Mrs. Wetmore, Senator and Mrs. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Miss Yvonne Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. Nicholas Anderson, Mrs. Bayard, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore, Col. and Mrs. McCaw, and others from the diplomatic corps and residents and official society to the number of nearly 300.

On Wedding Journey. Mr. Gerry and his bride started upon their wedding journey, and at New York boarded Commodore Gerry's steam yacht, "Electra," for Mr. Gerry's country estate on Delaware Bay. They will spend a month in cruising and enjoying the beauties of that place, and will later go to Bar Harbor and other resorts. They will sail for Europe in the late summer or early fall, and will spend some time in traveling. Their future home will be in New York.

The wedding gifts included almost everything from a string of pearls and a house in New York, from Commodore Gerry and his family, to a diadem of diamonds, presented by Mrs. Charles H. Strong and her daughter, Mrs. Reginald Ronalds, the aunt and cousin of the bride. Miss Elkins, the maid of honor, who shares honors with the bride in being the finest horsewoman in the country, gave her a diamond fox.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt sent a diamond brooch, and the list of gifts included many rare pieces of bric-a-brac, splendid old lace and embroideries, pictures, and rare editions of books.

Commodore and Mrs. Gerry and their family, with all of the New York guests, except Mr. and Mrs. Robert Golet, returned to New York yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Richard Townsend is preparing to close her Washington home for a number of years, during which time she will live abroad.

Sign Anti-Cigarette Pledge. Mrs. Lucy Page Gaston Holds Big Meeting at Takoma Park.

Mrs. Lucy Page Gaston, superintendent of the Anti-Cigarette League, was the principal speaker at a capacity meeting, held under the auspices of the Young People's Temperance Society, at the Takoma Hall, Takoma Park, the subject of her address being "The boy, the cigarette, and the nation."

The meeting opened with an invocation by Dr. M. E. Olsen, followed by a song by Takoma Park Boys' Club Quartet. Frederick Briggs, president of Union College, Lincoln, Neb., delivered an address on "Relation of temperance to manhood and womanhood." Mrs. Sallie D. Chase, editor of Temperance Youth's Instructor, spoke on "Men, monuments, and misery," and song by Boys' Club Quartet, "Down with the cigarette forever."

Mrs. Gaston then organized the Takoma branch of the Million Club, Anti-Cigarette League. Mrs. Gabriel Loftis, of Foreign Mission Seminary, rendered selections on temperance to manhood and womanhood. The Washington Sanitarium, addressed the meeting on some recent scientific facts relative to alcohol and tobacco, "Confessions of a tobacco user," was the subject of a talk by Rev. I. D. Richardson.

The ceremony of the signing of the pledge by young people followed to the accompaniment of a girl's chorus, and the affair was concluded by the general chorus of "Launch the Life-boat."

PREACHERS POORLY PAID.

Census Bureau Figures Show Salary $603 Per Annum.

Preachers are the poorest paid class of men in the country, according to statistics compiled by the Census Bureau. The average pay of the clergyman is computed at $603.

City preachers get much higher wages than those in charge of rural flocks, except in Catholic churches. The remunerations are fixed by diocesan authorities. The highest average paid by any denomination is to the Unitarians, $1.93 per year.
